

QNET ENERGY PRODUCTS FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q: What is the difference between Amezcua, Himalayan Crystal Collection™ and Veloci-Ti products?

A: Amezcua is a harmonised energy product line that provides a variety of body and water energisers. By using a nano-engineered minerals and fusion technique, Amezcua products are designed and tested to enhance the natural properties of water as well as the human body's energy systems, to protect you from e-smog and to increase your harmony and energy levels every day.

Himalayan Crystal Collection™ is a selection of natural energy jewellery that combines the natural energy of ancient quartz crystals, with the quality of precious materials through a unique crafting technique. The natural energy is transferred from the crystal to the wearer, to contribute to an increase and balance in the wearer's energy levels and to restore the body's equilibrium.

Veloci-Ti is a range of energised titanium performance pendants that unite style with cutting-edge Informational Energy Imprinting, called IEI Technology, to help everyone experience improved physical performance, agility, resistance, and endurance. It is particularly beneficial to physically active people and professional athletes who need to excel in sporting activities, or who need more energy and endurance to perform.

Q: Should I wear my Amezcua Chi Pendant, Himalayan Crystal Collection™ pendant or Veloci-Ti pendant while I am sleeping?

A: You should not wear these energy pendants when you are sleeping because the energy frequency from the pendant may interfere with your natural sleeping pattern.

Q: Will the energy presented in Amezcua, Himalayan Crystal Collection™ or Veloci-Ti products be crashed by the certain types of magnetic field?

A: The electromagnetic fields created by electronic equipment such as mobile phones, microwave ovens, security gates, etc., does not affect the energy of these products. However, very strong industrial magnets might disturb the energy of the products.

Q: Could the effect of Amezcua, Himalayan Crystal Collection™ and Veloci-Ti products interfere with the transmission of electronic devices?

A: No, these products do not interfere with the normal functioning of electronic devices.

Q: Can I use Amezcua, Himalaya Crystal Collection™ or Veloci-Ti products as medical devices?

A: These energy products should not be considered as medical devices, or as alternatives to professional medical devices, or intended as a substitute for professional medical opinion and/or a cure, or as a substitute for any medical treatment of any nature whatsoever. You are advised to seek your own professional medical advice in the event you have any doubts in connection with the use of these products prior to their use. Should you experience any contraindication of any nature whatsoever or feel that you may, you should immediately consult your medical practitioner, physician and seek professional medical advice.

Q: Are there any known side effects I may encounter after using these energy products?

A: It depends on the individual. Some people may experience slight discomfort during a short adjustment period. If you feel major discomfort, stop using the product and consult your health practitioner.

Q: How are the Himalayan Crystals formed?

A: Himalayan Crystals are formed from the fiery gases and minerals that are forced upward from the Earth's molten core. Penetrating the mantle, or crust, the gases meet solid rock that forces them to cool and solidify. This is usually a slow and gradual process. It is a continual metamorphosis as a result of eons of geological change. Because they contain a record of Earth's development spanning millions of years and an indelible imprint of the powerful forces that formed our planet, crystals are considered by many as the Earth's DNA.

Q: What is the difference between Himalayan Crystals and other crystals?

A: Himalayan Crystals have been exposed to nature's elements longer than other crystals so they have enhanced higher natural energy reserves over other crystals.

Q: What are the benefits of Amezcua and Himalayan Crystal Collection™ pendants to my body?

A: These energy products create a positive vibration that helps increase and harmonise your overall body energy levels.

Q: Where are the Amezcua Chi Pendant, Himalayan Crystal Collection™ and Veloci-Ti products manufactured and energised?

A: The Amezcua Chi Pendant is manufactured and energised in Germany. Himalayan Crystal Collection™ products are manufactured in Thailand by a 100% German-owned reputed jewellery manufacturer. The crystals used are hand mined and individually selected from the peaks of the Himalayas in Nepal, 3000 metres above sea level.
